Great Alexandra's Diary I

The thing worried me for a year broke out. The attack by Japanese forces. At about 8:00 a.m., Japanese started to pour artillery toward our garrison. Though It was expected, we did not know it was this soon. Moreover, their tactics in war were magnificent. I can't see any difference from our wartactics. Their weapons, in fact, seemed more advanced than ours. They pour artillery toward the place that they exactly aimed for. The town, surrendered by Canadian forces, was literally blown up without leaving any alive person. Our army tactics weren't as highly advanced as Japense. See! As I mentioned it before, Japanese got a tremendous amount of prestiges and build their Strength through colonizing Manchuria. We should have resisted Nips from capturing them. But regretting, right now, does not make any change. We have no time to modernize our war tactics, right now. All we can do is Diligently fight the Nips and make their forces move them out of our land - Hong Kong. Actually, Diary, I'm not sure. I'm not sure whether we can win such brave and hardworking Japanese soldiers or not. They have some kind of "samurai" spirit that is always in them. This makes Jap. soldiers to think that dying in the battleground is honorable practice. In other words, Jap. soldiers are not afraid of anything whereas one third of British and Canadian soldiers are freaked out and oftentimes run to death - instead of bravely fighting Japs. Japs soliders remind me of Napoleon, the short authoritarian ruler. Although they look small, the way they act is bigger than tallest British soldier in our army. If we lose this war, we should train in more intense way than before. Like the way Japanese modernize and westernize their military, we, too, need to do what they have done in the past few years. I love our country. I want to get back the glory that England used to have, but now we were threatened by the island country, Asians! How can we used to be better than them! We should be always better than them. In order to get back

Dear Diary,

Nips. They are the most treacherous, infamous, arrogant creatures in the world. How could they resign their positions in the league of Nations, just because they have to give up Manchuria and northeast China? It seems right in terms of Japaense spectrum, but it misfits global spectrum. Such of their immature and independent action should be stopped. We have to warn him.

However, the commander does not take my plea. Rather than paying attention to my words, he just sent me to one of our colonies, Hong Kong. I think if European nations lets this rude Nip alone, Nip would soon be world strongest power. Because his naval force is as strong as ours and have sufficient amount of natural sources to back the money spent on war, we have a chance of losing the war, started by Nips. We need to seriously stop Japanese Expansion. European nations need to cooperate to resist this rapidly growing barbarians' country. They would not only take fight to control of Manchuria in Chian, but also HongKong. Since they ended Anglo Saxon Alliance, which would resist their expansion on our colonial states, they have right to expand in such of foreign borders. Sigh... British should send more soldiers to garrison, here. But all they care about is regaining their wealth, simply by put too much tariffs on British-made commodities. Hence, the kind Chinks, like xia liu, suffer due to the high prices on things, used for living. Again, diary, I pray every single night for England and European nations to seize Nips. If we lag on seizing Japanese power, we would have paid big price later on. From Sino Japanese War, which happened ten years ago, taught me Japan is no longer a small island country, who only knows how to mimic us. They become as powerful and clever as us, nowadays. They have strong naval force, wise nationalist leader, and big ambition to beat over us. So, us, Europeans need to use any kind of methods, even if it seems disturbing. Seriously, without seizing Nips right now, we won't have sufficient amount of power to control them.
